

Study on Active Learning:
Collaborative Learning of the English Subject
at a Senior High School

Masako GOSHI

In this article, collaborative learning of the English subject is suggested based on lessons at a senior high school. Also, as one method of Active Learning, the Jigsaw Method, which CoREF and Saitama Prefectural Education Center have promoted cooperatively, is introduced and its merits are pointed out. Moreover, the article makes suggestions for English teachers regarding their attitudes and ways of teaching, and discusses the future of the English education in Japan.
